

Philosopher

D. Exiting out of returnForks completely in this case would result in the second test not running. The right hand philosopher may never have their thread signaled/resumed. After a number of operations may never get the state "EATING" – resulting in incorrect state and/or cascading inability to eat.